Another Universal Language.

Never do six months pass by without some attempt being made to do away with the disadvantages of the diversity of tongues, but so far success has not attended any one of them. Struggle as they may, the inventors of universal languages cannot get away from Latin, and the latest attempt, that by Professor Peano of Turin, resolves itself into Latin without inflections. The professor proposes to do away with cases, numbers, genders and persons and also with tenses and voices, using the ablative in the case of substantives and the infinitive minus re or ri for the verbs. In fact, his system is the evolution of the Italian tongue carried to its logical conclusion. Nearly every one learns Latin more or less, and it is difficult to see why the simple Latin of the middle ages without any straining after Ciceronian elegancies should not suffice for all our international needs during the few years which must pass before all the world speaks English.—London Globe.

Housing the Workman.

That form of industrial paternalism that finds its exposition in housing employees probably is nowhere more popular than in Germany, where the lead is taken by the government itself in providing rentable properties for the employees of the royal factories. The government for many years has been spending money liberally in the coal district of Saarbrücken for the erection of dwelling houses, which are sold to the miners on easy monthly installments. As an example of the extent of this practice the case of the Krupp Essen works may be considered typical. This company owns some 4,274 houses that are rented exclusively by workmen, representing an investment of some $3,875,000. Of these 1,000 have two rooms each, 1,869 have three rooms each, 448 have four rooms each, 150 have five rooms each, 63 have six rooms each and 84 have seven rooms each.

Negroes Fight Duel in Street.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 23.—In a running pistol fight between two negroes in the heart of this city Ross Jackson was shot in the back and probably mortally wounded, and his antagonist, Edward Blumcaguel, received a bullet in his foot. Miss Sue Ouan, a white pedestrian, had her hand injured by a stray bullet.
